LOCAL MATTERS.

Winter coats made a sudden exit this week.

DR. HERZICH is having a new fence built around the lot upon which his office stands.

ICE CREAM every Sunday during the summer season at 51 E. SECKINGER'S.

Justices of the peace and other officers wanting blanks of any kind, can be accommodated by calling at this office.

The weather has at last succumbed to the season. Look out for scorchers for the next two or three months.

A large box of dry goods was stolen from the landing a few days ago, in the absence of the landing clerk, Mr. John Kern. No clue to the thief has as yet been found.

We are prepared to furnish Notes Receipts, Tax Receipts, and every thing of the kind, neatly bound, in book form, at astonishingly low prices.

BIG SHOW Coming.

Open every day Sundays excepted admission free to inspect ZEEKE & JOKE's large stock of goods which they are just receiving and at such low price that will surprise everybody.

It won't pay to waste your time by taking in the waists of pretty girls this hot weather. If their mammas catch you they will make it hot for you and the Lord knows it is hot enough already.

Blank notes, with or without stubs, furnished at this office. We will soon have a supply of "Mortgage" or "Iron-clad" notes on hand. Prices as low as elsewhere.

The body of a boy, supposed to be about twelve years of age, was picked up in the trees, a short distance below town, on Tuesday evening. He had evidently lain in the water for a long time as the body was partly decomposed. He had on a pair of drawers made with waist to them, and one boot. In one pocket he had a small cotton handkerchief. Nothing was found about the body to indicate his identity.

We are very anxious to supply the public with all kinds of Job Printing. We are very fond of running our new press, and hope everybody will want lot of job work done.

The jail building is being somewhat retarded this week for want of suitable building stone. We understand that Mr. Reich, who has the contract for furnishing the cut stone for the corners, windows bases, caps, &c., is not able to work on account of ill health.

Some thief or thieves, supposed to be the same who carried off the box of goods from the landing a few days since, broke in to the house of Mr. Damian Andre and ransacked it, probably in search of money. He or they succeeded in finding three or four dollars in silver, which was appropriated. The same night or a night or two after a party was discovered carrying of stone stove wood from the wood shed of Dr. Carssow. The latter party is known, and it will probably not be healthy for him to continue the business. A good dose of lead pills would be a good antidote for such "cattle."

As a rat catcher Mr. Leon Kerst is a success, although the "rats" he catches are not always a success. He caught one at Chester on Thursday night that proved to be a rat stuffed with saw dust, with an artificial tail and a string tied to its head. The rat ran very fast by means of the string which a boy behind a wood pile pulled, but Mr. Kerst will bound to have that rat, and the antics which he cut in endeavoring to catch it while running across the street in front of the St. James Hotel was truly amusing to a crowd of ladies and gentlemen who were sitting on the veranda.

We made a flying trip to our neighboring town of Chester last week, and attended the spring Fair of the Southern Illinois Stock and Agricultural Association. The turnout to the Fair was not as large as was expected by the officers of the association, but nevertheless was creditable for the new experiment. The principle feature of the exhibition was the races. In the big trotting race on the second day, (Thursday) our neighboring Missouri county, St. Francois, carried off the palm. A grey Stallion owned by J. E. Clardy, of Libertyville, took the first and third premiums, amounting to $125. Edward Everett, owned by J. W. Drury, of Waterloo, Ill., also a Missouri horse, took the second prize, $50. We met and were introduced to several officers of the Society, from whom we received many courtesies for which we are under obligation. Although the Chester Fair grounds are not in as good condition as they should be, yet it is not the fault of the directors. A recent storm of wind and rain came very near ruining the whole ground. It tore away a large portion of the fence, and almost all the stalls for stock. We were well pleased with our visit, and hope to be able to pay it many more.

While in Chester we met the newspaper men, Spangler and Knapp, and also Mr. Wall, editor of the Pinckneyville Independent. From the appearance of all of them we should think that Fortune was dealing kindly with them.

As business was pressing with us we were unable to remain but one day and so returned home on Thursday night after a pleasant trip.

GRASSHOPPERS.—Many inquiries are being made as to the grasshoppers, and the probabilities of their coming east this summer. The following extract from a letter from Kansas will give our readers an idea of the present status of the dreaded insect:

"Ever since the middle of April the young grasshoppers have been hatching out in West Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska, to a helpless state, but the papers say the attack was evidently made in his interest by "young" unknown in Seymour. The marshall acted to death, and taking his pith away from him. The marshall stood by and saw it all.

The Citizen of Missouri has apportioned him as a dead, failing and poor, for doing nothing but what he did in supporting the country."

We fear the average Missourian knows but little of the meaning of the word "eating," much less the significance of the word "eating."

It is proper for the Almighty to overwhelm the superstitious insects with grasshoppers, we fail to see why the Missouri man should be exempt from their ravages.—Pinckneyville (Ill.) Independent.
